

As a woman of faith, Renise spends her life attempting to live out daily what it means to be obedient to God by loving people unconditionally, living differently, dreaming big and leading courageously. Over the years this pursuit has expressed itself through work at the intersections of faith, affordable housing, community development, education and most recently workforce development. Throughout these endeavors Renise upholds a deep commitment to social and economic justice and works consistently to transform the systems and structures that uphold oppression and keep people from thriving.

Renise serves as a volunteer tutor for Whiz Kids, is on the advisory board for Spark Mindset, a company working to break the cycle of poverty by connecting low-income children to careers in cybersecurity and was most recently appointed to the board of the Faith and Money Network in 2020.
