

Paul Taylor

As a small business owner I was aware of the growing wealth of our family. I was also committed to not letting affluence dominate my values and lifestyle. What I have found most helpful in this struggle to maintain spiritual balance has been my association with Faith & Money Network. Through trips of perspective, workshops, and wonderful personal relationships I have been helped to keep a perspective weighted toward the common good instead of personal gain. I treasure my over thirty-year involvement with the organization.